7) Submitted We Sir is of opinion that it is very necessary to have a Reserve Guard in the Jails at Bangalore & Mysore in order to maintain discipline and to meet any outbreak therein and that a 'Vacancy Reserve' is also necessary as at present existing in the Prison Rules.

8) After considering the requirements of the two jails in detail he has...

Now recommended the establishment of a minimum additional ward staff as noted below in the Central Jail, Bangalore.

a) Rescue Guards 3 Head warders on a pay of Rs 17+ House rent of Rs 3/- and 15 warders on a pay of Rs 12 + H.R Rs 8/-

b) Vacancy Reserve 2 Head warders on the same pay scale and

2) Mysore Jail

a) Rescue Guard 2 Head warders on the same pay scale and 10 warders on the same pay scale

b) Vacancy Reserve 5 warders on the same pay scale.

3) The maintenance of a Rescue Guard is prescribed in the Jail Manual, vide Rule 416 which may not be expedient from the administrative point of view to retain, defer it or amend it. It is absolutely necessary & has therefore to be included

Vacancy Reserve is maintained

Police force at 8½% in City areas and 6½% in Mofussil areas & 10% in Naxal areas for meeting the deficiency in the force on account of leave & the man would take now & then. The ward staff of the Jail should also be provided with a Vacancy Reserve for meeting the deficiency in the staff on account of leave etc of the ward and to the proposal of the Jail to maintain it is all right on the analogy of the Police force.

10) A point might possibly be raised as to how the department was getting on without these two items of addition so far & why they should be urged now. It has to be said in that behalf that the two jails had all along had a temporary additional staff which in recent times came to be further augmented to a considerable extent. The jails were able to manage with these additions & meet all possible contingencies. But now that all those temporary additions both recent & old have been ordered to be dispensed with (vide last sentence of the Jail's letter dated 25. 1. 1961) the necessity for having a Standard Minimum Staff cannot be over-emphasised. The proposal now made by the Dept. is therefore reasonable & also necessary and may perhaps have to be increased.

The Finance Dept. may be consulted.

the D.G mentioned in his letter dated of the temporary Staff for a period of one more year. But as his subsequent letters dated 25th Jany 1917, 3rd July 1917

~~larger~~ Staff for which no specific date was mentioned. In these later letters the D.G has mentioned that he has permitted the Supdt of the Central Jail and the Mysore Jail to continue the larger Staff and desires that the said temporary Staffs be so, it would have to be inferred that only the larger Staff has to be continued in which case the date may not be identical with the 16th Oct 1916 but it ~~may~~ might be a later date. An addition has been made in the draft accordingly.
If necessary the exact date may be ascertained from the D.G & then the

Pris

Sir,

Subject:- Continuance of the additional temporary Warder Staff sanctioned for the Jails at Bangalore and Mysore.

Please refer

With reference to your letter No. P. 4153 dated the 21st December 1943, I have the honour to state as follows:-

The permanent Warder Establishment of the Central Jail, Bangalore consists of 86 warders and 10 Head Warders including a Head Wardress. Of these, 10 warders and 2 Head Warders are posted against convicts employed on extra-mural labour, 6 warders and 2 Head Warders at the Main Gate of the Jail and 6 warders as orderlies in the several branches of the Jail Office. Allowing a margin of 8 warders for absentees due to leave, sickness and other causes, about 56 warders and 6 Head Warders will be available for watch and ward work within the Jail. These warders attend to their duties by shifts-some during the day and the rest, during the night.

On the Establishment of the Mysore Jail, there are 36 warders and 3 Head Warders. Of these, 4 warders and a Head Warder are posted for duty at the Main Gate of the Jail, 4 against convicts employed on out-door work and 3 as orderlies in the Jail Office. On an average there will be about 4 absentees per day and only 21 warders and 2 Head Warders will be available for guarding and other routine duties within the Jail.

The prison population in the Central Jail ranges normally between 900 and 1000 and in the Mysore Jail between 250 and 350. Due to the additional buildings recently constructed within these two Jails, the number of watch posts has increased. For want of an adequate warder staff, some of the work-sheds are left to the care of convicts themselves. This is not only irregular but also affords scope for prisoners to pilfer or to misuse the tools and plant in their charge.

Whenever condemned prisoners are received into the Jail or sick prisoners are admitted into the Hospitals outside the Jail, raw hands are enlisted to keep watch over such prisoners. It has also been the practice to fill up short vacancies with fresh men. Recruits so employed have no stake in service and are generally irresponsible. For the Police Department, there is what is called a "Vacancy Reserve", stationed in each District. Short vacancies are filled up by men drawn from this reserve. It is necessary that there should be a "Vacancy Reserve" for each of the Jails at Bangalore and Mysore. With such a reserve, trained trained men would be readily available for short leave vacancies or for being posted against condemned Prisoners or against convicts under treatment in the Hospitals outside the Jail or to meet any other emergency.

Rule 469 requires that there should be a "Reserve Guard" attached to the Jail. The Reserve Guard's duties are to furnish the sentry at the Main Gate and to be present at the Guard Room to turn out at a moment's notice to meet any emergency that may arise inside the Jail. In the British Indian Provinces there is a separate Reserve Guard for every Jail. There is no such Guard for the Jails at Bangalore and Mysore. A small batch of men is drawn from the Warder Establishment for sentry duty at the Main Gate. This arrangement diminishes the strength of the Warder Establishment meant for the internal management of the Jail and affects the efficiency of Guarding work. It is very necessary that there should be a separate and adequately strong "Reserve Guard" for each of the Jails at Bangalore and Mysore. The presence of such a Guard would instil moral fear into the minds of the prisoners and would help to prevent them from acting in a manner prejudicial to discipline. After a detailed investigation, I find that an additional staff of warders and Lead Warders is indispensably necessary for the Jails at Bangalore and Mysore and accordingly I recommend that a Reserve Guard consisting of 15 warders each on a pay of Rs. 12 plus 3 and 3 Head Warders each on a pay of Rs. 17 plus 3 and a "Vacancy Reserve" consisting of 10 warders each on a pay of Rs. 12 plus 3 and 2 Head Warders each on a pay of Rs. 17 plus 3 may be sanctioned for the Central Jail on a permanent basis. The warder staff attached to the Mysore Jail may likewise be supplemented by a Reserve Guard consisting of 10 warders and 2 Head Warders and a "Vacancy Reserve" of 5 warders on the same scale of pay as proposed for the Central Jail. The additional cost which comes up to Rs. 740/- p.m. is inevitable. In view of economy, I have submitted proposals for the absolute minimum of the additional staff required and I have in anticipation of approval, instructed the Superintendents of the Jails to dispense with the services of all the other temporary warders and Head Warders employed in their Jails.

Early orders of Government are solicited.
